Mr Miller believes that labor and capital should have an even break, that each abouid have respect for the rughts of the other, and that the inboring man should always receive a fair wage for his

John H. Miller believes in the onforcement of law and or a strong capacity of all reclamation projects in order that the agricultural resources of this state may be fully developed. He believes that what laws we have in force should be either enforced or repealed, nad thinks there are too many laws now on the statute books and that the efforts of the next legislature should be to repeal many of the laws rather than increase the number. He be-Heves, wherever it is feasible to do so, that carpayers should be sent to the legislature to help the governor carry out a policy of retrenchment that will make for the progress of the state and the material happiness and prosperity of all its citizens re gardless of creed, race or political affiliation.

Mr. Miller has been in the thick of most of the mining booms that have taken place in this state during the last 30 years. He has been himself a prospector, a miner, a mine owner and one of the big men of the state in the direction of ta afairs in mining, agriculture, stock raising, banking and all other indus-sources of this great state
